LEAPS 3 STORIES, BABY IN HER ARMS, AND BOTH SURVIVE

Thrilling Rescues and Almost Incredible Escapes at Bronx Flat House Blaze.

Thrilling rescues and almost incredible escapes marked a fire this afternoon in the five-story apartment house at No. 250 Alexander Avenue. Five persons were injured and the building was burned to the ground.

Trapped by the collapse of a stairway, Mrs. Lizzie Blake, with her baby in her arms and her ten-year-old daughter beside her, stood screaming at a third story window. A ladder was shot up and Firemen Dawson and Johnson of Truck No. 17 mounted. Dawson seized the little girl and handed her down to Johnson. He reached for Mrs. Blake and the baby then.

But the woman had been literally standing fire. Her legs were terribly burned and the torture had crazed her. Before Dawson could get hold of her she swung from the window and fell.

Below her Policeman Charles Bonaventure was standing. He braced himself. Mrs. Blake struck the coping at the second floor and whirled down into the policeman's arms. He fell over backward and suffered a wrench of the spine. But he had broken the force of the woman's fall. Her head struck a flag stone and her skull is believed to have been fractured. In spite of that and of her burns, she lives and may recover. She is at the St. Francis Hospital.

Her baby had rolled from her arms as she struck the policeman. The child is only slightly injured.

PARIS, March 29.—Phelps Collins of Detroit, a member of the Lafayette Flying Corps, was killed in an air fight on the French front on March 12. It was announced to-day. While on patrol duty Collins was attacked by a number of German machines. He drove one adversary down and then was himself hit, falling into the German lines. Collins had been at the front for about five months and had shot down two German machines. He was considered one of the best airmen.

Phelps Collins was one of twenty-four Americans who were commissioned in the aviation reserves of the American army in France, on recommendation of Gen. Pershing, last December. He was given the rank of captain. His name appeared in an American casualty list more than a week ago.

Those on the second floor stepped out onto the broad coping and worked around the building to find escape. Some from the third floor escaped in that way, too. But the tenants of the top floors were in gravest danger.

Policeman Conway reached the roof by way of an adjoining building and improvised a plank bridge across a six-foot area to the roof of the building. He went down to the fifth floor and led two women and four children to safety. The women were Mrs. M. Darcy and Mrs. Mary Duffin. The children were Mrs. Duffin's. Conway's wrists were burned.

A triple alarm had brought several companies of firemen, who threw up ladders from both sides. Firemen Lawson and Johnson, who had kept the blaze in check and tried to rescue Mrs. Blake, heard screams above them at the fourth floor. At a window Mrs. Carrie Holm was struggling hysterically in the grasp of James Fletcher, who was trying to prevent her from jumping.

The firemen quickly extended their ladder to cover the extra distance, helped Fletcher to subdue the woman and carried her down to safety. Captain Edward Dressler of Hook and Ladder No. 29 was cut about the hands by window glass helping citizens to escape.

The adjoining buildings were threatened for a time and their tenants were ordered into the street. The loss was estimated at $20,000.

CRAIG HOLDS ON TO JOB.

Supreme Court Justice Scudder granted an injunction to-day restraining Burroughs President Kriegelmann of Brooklyn from removing Samuel J. Craig as a member of Local School Board No. 1 and restraining Nat J. Perber, who was appointed to succeed Craig, from acting as a member of the board. The effect is to oust Perber and reinstate Craig.

The trial, many of them in "Automobile Row" on Broadway, had their electric current turned off to-day by order of Deputy Fuel Administrator Estey O. Norman for violation of the "lightless Thursday" rule last night. Until he has assurances that the offenders will remain dark on Thursday and Sunday nights, Mr. Norman will keep their lights dim forever.

The offending establishments were the Stewart Auto School, the Auburn Motor Company and Kippell's Used Car Company, all at 27th Street and Broadway; the Lexington Car Company, at No. 1840 Broadway; Naehm's Pharmacy, at No. 1972 Broadway; C. M. Marks' drug store at No. 2678 Broadway; Duf's restaurant, at No. 29 East 42d Street; Louis Ladine, at No. 2125 Second Avenue; the Nations' Winter Garden, on Second Avenue, and the Kessler Theatre, on Second Avenue.

All but the Ladine firm were second offenders and had received warnings.
